Having skydiving insurance with third party liability that covers up to 1.500.000,00 € is mandatory to jump in Italy. If you came from outside EU please double check this, it's highly probable you need a coverage upgrade! We are fine if you upgrade your own coverage in any way you prefer as long as it ends up covering 1.500.000,00 € within a single insurance contract.

We have 2 different companies who provide insurance, both cost 90,00 € and offer a 365 days coverage, both can be subscribed at the dropzone and will grant you the right to jump starting from the next midnight after payment (the next jumping day will be ok)

17 Weather

Statistical meteorological data, based on information of the past 5 years.

Month	min temp	max temp	rainfall	humidity	winds
July	19 °C	28 °C	45 mm	76%	ESE 9 km/h
August	19 °C	27 °C	61 mm	76%	E 9 km/h
September	16 °C	24 °C	61 mm	79%	E 9 km/h

- their national anthem in a downloadable format (CD, MP3)

Bulletin #2 will be issued before July, 15th 2019.

18.1 Performance Navigation and lanes

There will be 4 different sets of reference points and every set will be angled by 45° from the previous one.

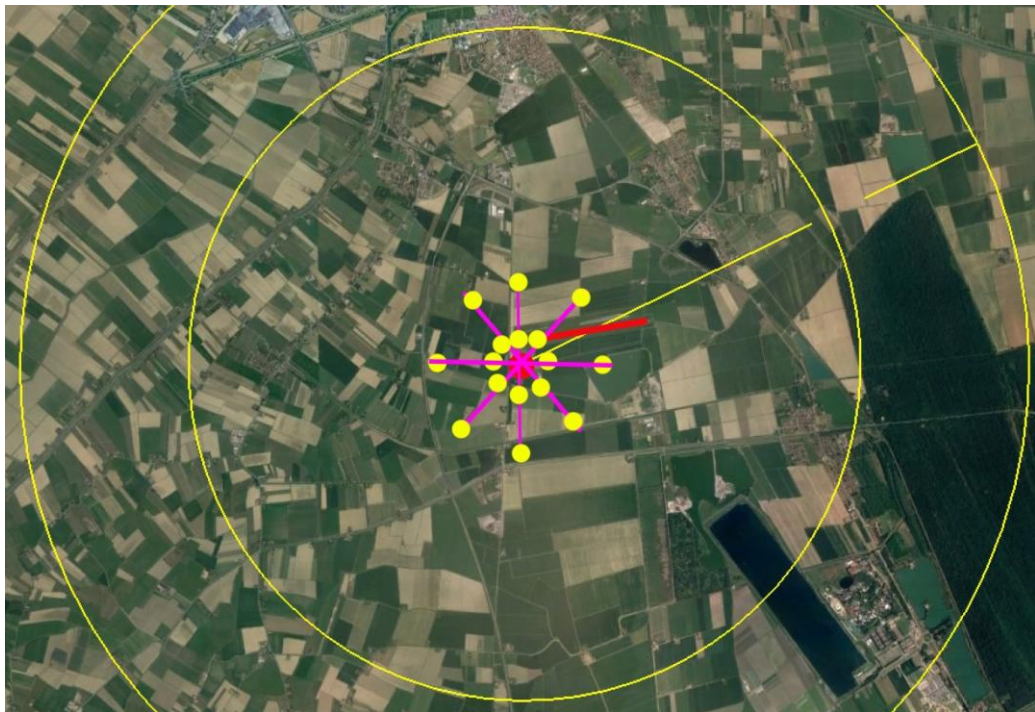

The reference points sets will be placed close to the landing zone in order to be used in both directions. This will allow the competitors to have 8 different lane directions by memorizing 4 set of reference points only.

<<performance competitors warning>> Due to their placement it is highly probable that reference points will be overshoot during the performance. Each competitor is supposed to build their own next reference points during their flight.

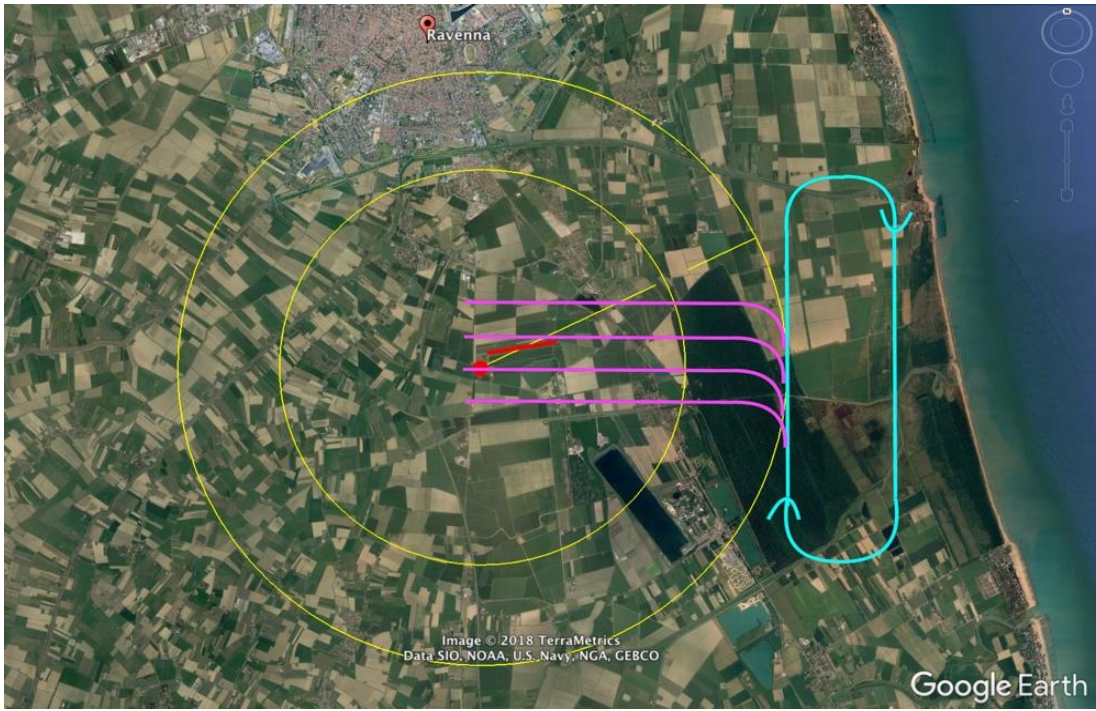

Official reference points coordinates and recent pictures will be uploaded and updated on the official competition website <https://wingsuitworldcup2019.com>

In the provided example, the set aligned N-S will be used for E-W lanes, but the same set will be used to align W-E lanes too.

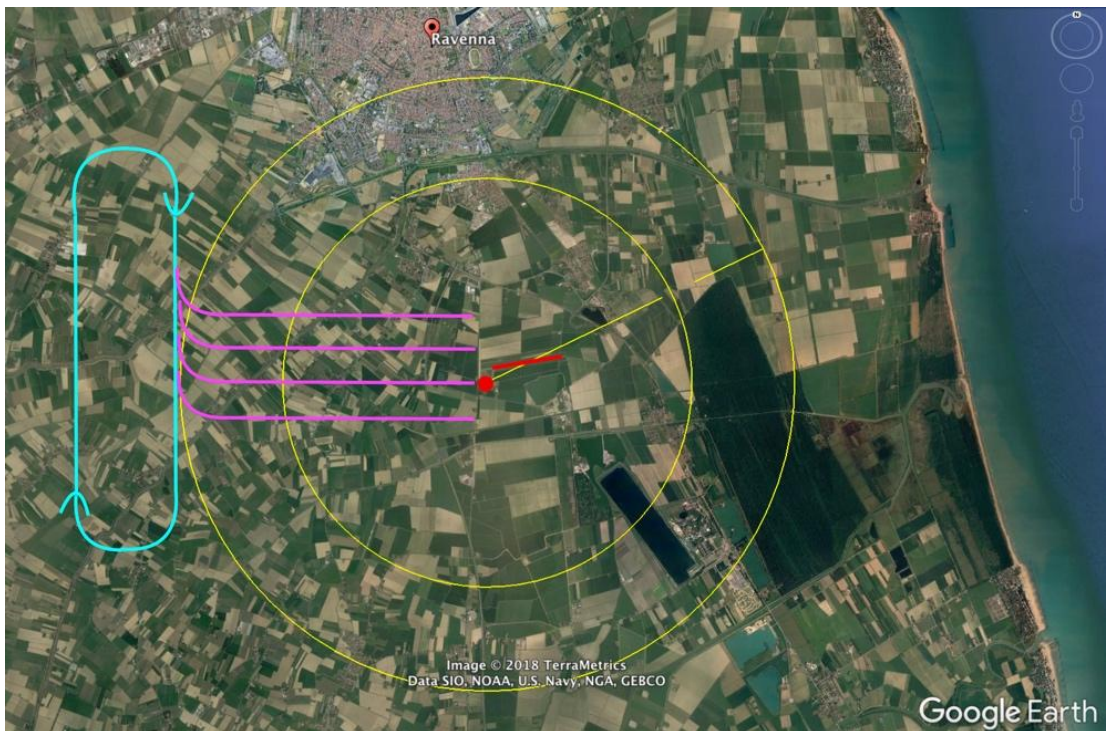

All the sets of reference points together

East to West lanes

West to East lanes (same reference points as before)
